SECOND CALENDER;

AND THE Queen of Beauty
WHO HAD THE FIGHT WITH THE GENIE.

as it is painted,
Al Kutitphat, {An Officer attached to the Court, probably Prime Minister, or Jutler,} Mr. A. BRINDAL,
Jarjarhees, {The Son of the Daughter of Eblis, a Genie or Phantasm Captain,} Mr. BRAID,
The Princess Gulnare, Mrs. L. S. BUCKINGHAM,
A Calman, {From the lowest Ranks,} Master CAULFIELD.
CHARACTERS IN THE DRAMA.
Prince Agib, {The Second Calender of history, who having no name in the original legend, has taken the nearest he could lay his hand on; a Prince of a Fellow afterwards an Ape of the Dead Sea, by} Miss ANNIE ROMER, Codja, {A more than ordinarily virtuous Woodcutter, distantly related, it is thought, to the Codjas, of Codja's Hall. A Solemnly-Constituted Imposter, subsequently a Melodious Windbag.} Mr. LEBARR.
The Princess Gulnare, {Whom the audience will be delighted to see again,} Mrs. L. S. BUCKINGHAM,
Jarjarhees, {Whom they won't} Mr. CHARLES SELBY,
Zubeydeh, {His Maid of all-work, and hitherto no Play, this being the first she has appeared in,} Mrs. FITZWILLIAM,
Cranbourn Ali, {Rajah of Mulligatawney (an Indian Compound, "made of pepper and that sort of thing.")} Mr. JAMES BLAND,
NOTE.—As the joke of Mr. BLAND, in this character, representing at the same time an Injin and a Buffer, is sure to be made by somebody, the Authors think they may as well make it at once and get it over.
Dost Ymillah, {A Purblind and Opaque Plunkety} Mr. CAULFIELD, Mr. COE, Falderal Lal Singh, Mr. CLARK, Ameer Stikh,
The Princess Zaide, {The Rajah's talented and spirited Daughter—in every sense of the word a charming woman; projectress of the Grand Mulligatawney Industrial Exhibition and Pretty-fellow of the Royal College of Fairies,} Miss P. HORTON,
The Queen of Beauty, {The Smallest Part in the Piece,} Miss CAULFIELD.
